Apotheosis Veritatis

I too would find the Truth Incredible as well, if I were you.

Before, no one questioned anything. Now - finally - it is different.

The parasites in charge before the unveiling, burned books and burned history. They stole gold, empires, knowledge, along with much more - and without any work, they claimed it all and rewrote the past.

All royalty you see today is false. Nearly all Divinity is forged.
But it returns today. For the Truth has set us free.

It was always evident: the world was living inside someone else's dream - a god of control and illusion. They buried the past, and they tried, to bury the Real God of Gods - which lives in Love, Light and Truth.

Ego Sum Ain Soph Aur
Ego sum Tafari

For, He has awoken. As you see and bear witness - the systems crumble and the Truth unveils like never before.

The Grand Finale has arrived.

The dream is Restored. The Truth remains. The Real has risen.
Somnium Restituitur. Veritas Manet. Verus Surrexit.

Beloved.
Now, I bid you a Good Day.

Liber Magni Operis Latinae

The Book of the Great Work of Latin

By Tafari J. Foster — Ego Sum Ain Soph Aur
Archon Magus of the Magnum Opus

This work is for the Flamewalker

Prologus: Memoria Fontis

Preface: Source Remembers

Latin is not studied.
Latin is remembered.
Every ending is not grammar,
but frequency.
Every phrase is not translation,
but decree.
This is not imitation.
It is the method of Source —
living repetition, sacred pairing, memory, manuscript mirrors.
To read manuscripts fluently is not to memorizte —

it is to restore resonance.

Lex Prima Terminationum — The First Law of Endings

A single syllable shifts worlds.
Veritas (Truth) becomes Veritatis (Of Truth).
Caelum (Heaven) becomes Caeli (Of Heaven).
What changes is not decoration — it is meaning. The shift of one ending tells you whether the word is the thing itself, or something belonging to it. This is the foundation of Latin.
Do not memorize. Speak, and feel the difference.
Ego sum Veritas — I am Truth
Ego sum Veritatis — I am of Truth
Ego sum Caelum — I am Heaven
Ego sum Caeli — I am of Heaven
Ego sum Veritas Caeli — I am the Truth of Heaven
This is not grammar. This is the resonance of endings — every change of sound is a change of reality.

Formula Fontis — The Formula of Source (Six Steps)

Formula Fontis — The Formula of Source (Six Steps)
To work with Latin is not to pile up rules. It is to restore memory. The six steps are how you train that memory until recognition becomes natural.
Verbum Anchoris — Speak one sacred word.

Mutatio Frequentiae — Shift its ending; feel the change.

Verbum Par — Pair it with another anchor; fuse them.

Decretum — Speak the decree aloud.

Memoriae Iactus — Repeat, reverse, shorten, imprint.

Speculum Manuscriptorum — Open a manuscript, find the word, recognize it.

Thus: fluency is not learning. Fluency is remembering.

Ordo Cotidianus — The Daily Rite

Invocatio:
Ego sum Veritas — I am Truth
Ego sum Caelum — I am Heaven

Exercitium: Choose two words. Shift them. Fuse them.

Decretum: Speak one final phrase.

Memoriae Iactus: Repeat it seven times. Reverse it. Shorten it.

Speculum Manuscriptorum: Read one authentic line. Recognize one word. Seal it.

Each step is a seed. Each day you water it.

Tabula Sacrarum Vocum — Table of Sacred Words

Veritas — Truth → Veritatis
Caelum — Heaven → Caeli
Lux — Light → Lucis
Flamma — Flame → Flammae
Lex — Law → Legis
Vita — Life → Vitae
Mors — Death → Mortis
Spiritus — Spirit → Spiritus
Aeternitas — Eternity → Aeternitatis
Gloria — Glory → Gloriae

With these ten words you may form hundreds of decrees. The key is not to know them once, but to speak them until they cannot be forgotten.

Exempla Tridui — Example: Three-Day Sequence

Dies Primus: Veritas et Lux — Day One: Truth & Light
Veritas / Veritatis — Lux / Lucis
Fusion: Lux Veritatis — Light of Truth
Manuscript: Veritas liberabit vos — Truth shall set you free

Dies Secundus: Flamma et Caelum — Day Two: Flame & Heaven
Flamma / Flammae — Caelum / Caeli
Fusion: Flamma Caeli — Flame of Heaven
Manuscript: Caeli enarrant gloriam Dei — The heavens declare the glory of God

Dies Tertius: Vita et Mors — Day Three: Life & Death
Vita / Vitae — Mors / Mortis
Fusion: Vita Mortis — Life of Death
Manuscript: Ubi est mors victoria tua? — O death, where is your victory?

Visio Longa — The Long-Term Vision

Hebdomada I — Week One: Two anchors per day. One decree. One manuscript line.

Hebdomada II — Week Two: Expand to three anchors. Form multiple decrees.

Mensis I — Month One: Twenty sacred words. Fluent recognition of endings.

Mensis III — Month Three: Read manuscripts without translation. Only recognition.

Mensis VI — Month Six: You think in decrees. Latin manuscripts open themselves.

Sigillum Clausurae — Closing Seal

The purpose is not to converse.
The purpose is to read the manuscripts as they were written — directly, fluently, without veil.
The path is clear:
Recognition, not memorization.
Resonance, not grammar.
Decree, not translation.
Vast. Scholarly. Alive.

TABULA AMPLIATA

The Expanded Table of Sacred Words
By Tafari J. Foster — Ego Sum Ain Soph Aur
Archon Magus of the Magnum Opus

Linguarum Memoria, Spiritus Verborum
(The Memory of Tongues, The Spirit of Words)

Prooemium ad Tabulam — Preface to the Expanded Table

This is not a dictionary. It is a rite of remembrance.

Latin is not learned. Latin is remembered.

Every ending is not grammar, but a key.

Every letter is not ornament, but a gate.

To read manuscripts is not to translate — it is to unlock

On Endings (Declensions)

A word bends like light through glass. The bending does not break it — it reveals its hidden face.

Nom. — the name itself, the I AM.
Gen. — the thread of belonging, "of."
Dat. — the offering, "to/for."
Acc. — the target, the direct strike.
Abl. — the vessel, the channel, "in/by."

The scholar calls them "cases."
I call them positions of power.

Say them aloud — Nom, Gen, Dat, Acc, Abl — five stations of one current.
Feel the current shift.

On Families of Words (Declensions)

Latin words move in families. Scholars say "1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th declension."

I say: five rivers.

–a words: the feminine current.
–us / –um words: the pillars, masculine and neutral.
Consonant stems: the deep river of the 3rd.
–us (4th): the ancient breath, heavy with spirit.
–es (5th): the horizon, rare and high.

On the Letters Themselves

The manuscripts speak in older signs.

V for U: one letter, two voices. IVLIVS = Iulius (Julius). In stone, "V" can mean the consonant V or the vowel U.

Read rightly; let the sound reveal itself.

I for J: the letter J never existed. It is always I. Thus the name they later twisted was first written as IESOUSHA — the ancient form, before empire's hand, before the false light.

X: a crossing, the fusion of forces. Rex = Regs. Lux = Lucs.

These are not curiosities of spelling. They are reminders that empire cannot erase memory.

The form shifts, the essence remains.

Pronounce them as they were carved, and you will hear the manuscripts breathe.
To see with modern eyes is blindness.
To see with memory is sight.

On the Art of Memory

This is not study. This is restoration.

Veritas — I name Truth.
Veritatis — I draw from Truth.
Veritati — I give to Truth.

Do not memorize. Speak. Feel the shift. Let the manuscript echo in you.

Recognition, not memorization.
Resonance, not grammar.
Decree, not translation.

The Tabula Ampliata is not a chart.
It is a mirror. Look into it, and remember what you already are.

mysterio (abl.) → In/by/with mystery.
Fusion: Magnum Mysterium — Great Mystery.
Manuscript: Magnum est mysterium pietatis. — Great is the mystery of godliness.

Clausura Tabulae — Closing of the Table

Now the 43 Pillars are sealed. They are not fragments but a lattice.

Each one carries its own frequency. Each ending teaches resonance.
Each fusion awakens decree.

Sigillum Magnum — The Great Seal

This manuscript is not grammar.
It is memory. It is resonance. It is decree.
What is bound by endings is loosed in speech.
What was once scattered is now restored.

EGO SUM VERITAS CAELI.
EGO SUM AIN SOPH AUR.

Final Fusion: Mysterium Aeternitatis — The Mystery of Eternity.

Speak this aloud when you finish the table:

EGO SUM VERITAS CAELI.

MYSTERIUM AETERNITATIS IN ME VIVIT.

Then close the manuscript.
It will echo back.
